The Long Haul: Stories of Human Migration (sponsored by Humanities WA)

Examine the roots and the routes of human migration from our beginnings in Africa, and trace our oft-branching journey into the 21st century. What happens when vast numbers of our fellow humans are on the move? Led by scholar David Fenner, this talk explores the push and pull factors that cause human migration, which in turn can help us understand more fully events in the headlines and better know the mosaic of peoples who have settled here.

A Concise Concert with Cantor Victor

When Temple Beth Am's Cantor Victor Geigner first spoke with us about his journey and Jewish life in Argentina, there was no time for music. Join us for this musical morning where the focus will be on song! We'll listen to guitar, voice, and the many languages of a sacred, sometimes spiritual, medium. After enjoying a nosh and visiting in the social hall, we'll gather in the sanctuary as Cantor Victor guides us in both listening and participating in making music.

Not Your Mother's Hadassah: A Talk with the Seattle Chapter Leadership

"If you are going to dream, then dream big", so stated Henrietta Szold in 1912 upon raising enough American dollars to send two US nurses to Palestine to battle ravaging health conditions. Fast forward 105 years. Learn why Hadassah is decades ahead of the US in its research on embryonic stem cells. Hear stories of ALS, Melanoma and MS patients whose lives are being transformed because they are participants in Hadassah's first in the world clinical trials. "The Power of Women Who Do" is Hadassah's new tag line. Learn about this and more with two of Seattle Hadassah's Chapter most passionate leaders: Susan Adler, President, and Ettie Davis, VP for Membership Outreach.
