

High School

TDSY Tuesdays is a weekly education experience designed to be a place for high schoolers to learn, schmooze, connect, and engage with their Jewish friends and leaders at Temple. It meets on Tuesday evenings from 6:00 PM – 8:15 PM at TDHS Bellevue.

After a catered dinner, classes split into 9th/10th grade and 11th/12th grade cohorts for learning with Rabbi Daniel Weiner, Rabbi Callie Schulman, Rabbi Aaron Meyer, and Jacob Glickman. Classes are followed by a dessert break and small group learning about the intersection of Jewish values and everyday life. Sample classes include:

When Sports Become Political with Rabbi Aaron

Kenny Stills boycotting the State of Israel? Colin Kaepernick on one knee during the National Anthem? Let's talk more about the political positions taken by basketball, football, and baseball players and their impact on the Jewish community.

Happiness as a Spiritual Practice with Rabbi Callie

Want to bring more happiness and satisfaction to your life? In five (easy) steps? Join in an exploration of how our spiritual wellness can have overarching beneficial effects on our lives, relationships, and indeed – our overall happiness. There will be craftivities.

Movies and Midrash with Rabbi Danny

Today's movies offer more than entertainment: they convey timeless values that are often rooted in our tradition. Together we will explore how modern film teaches universal lessons.

Jewish Heroes with Jacob Glickman

Learn about Jewish men and women in our tradition who have shaped our experiences of Judaism and the world. Discover their stories, explore their relationship to Judaism, and learn how you, too, can be a hero of the Jewish People.
